

Be a home hero!

Emma Swanberg

When we think of heroes

we think of them
fighting crime

Talking Points

- What do you think it takes to be a hero?
- Who are your heroes?
- What do they have in common?

But you can be a superhero

Just by staying at home!

Talking Points

- Do you know why we have to stay at home?
- IDEAS for further exploration:

By reading, playing and spending time with people who love you

Talking Points

- What are you looking forward to about being at home?
- What would you like to make sure we do while we are at home?
- 5 things I love about spending time with you!

You get to keep others safe

And make the world a better place!

Talking Points

- "Usually we spend a lot of time with other people and in groups. The Coronavirus loves passing from one person to another so we need to stay apart for a little while so we can stop the Coronavirus passing to other people. This is how we will keep everyone around us well. Every one of us has a role in keeping others safe. Do you have any questions about that?"

It might feel a little strange

Not seeing some of the people you care about a LOT

Talking Points

- Who will you miss seeing? What do you like about seeing them?

But you will stay connected and maybe you can see each other on the phone or even write letters

Talking Points

- How shall we make sure we keep talking to those people?
- Ideas - send photos of activities to nursery and school friends, online video calls, ask family members to do 'lessons' online, start an email account for older children, send letters and pictures for younger children

Imagine that!

Just by having fun at home, and washing your hands....

Talking Points

- What fun thing shall we make sure we do today?
- What song shall we sing today when we are washing our hands?

You

ARE A HERO!

Can you draw yourself as a superhero?
