Write A Shape Poem

Read The Mouse's Tale on page 17. What do you notice about how the poem is written? That's right, it is written in the shape of the mouse's tail. Now write a shape poem for a familiar object from the story Alice in Wonderland. You may choose one from the list or think of another important shape from the story so far.

- table
- key
- key hole

Writing A Poem Checklist

- I followed the format of a shape poem. (organization)
- I used ideas that are clearly connected to my shape. (ideas)
- I used specific details from the story that memorable. (ideas)
- I used words that paint a picture in my reader's mind. (word choice)

“Fury said to a mouse, That he met in the house, ‘Let us both go
to law: I
will prosecute you.—
Come, I’ll
take no denial: We must have
the trial;
For really
this morning I’ve nothing
to do.’
Said the mouse to the cur,
“Such a
trial, dear
sir, With no jury
or judge,
would
be wasting our breath.”
“I’ll be
judge, I’ll be
jury,”
Said
cum-
ing
old Fury: “I’ll try
the whole
case
and
condemn
you
at once.”

The Mad Hatter's Tea Party

“Have you guessed the riddle yet?” The Mad Hatter.

The Mad Hatter always throws the greatest tea parties but this time he has gotten himself in a right muddle—he cannot remember exactly where people sit, he only has some mixed-up information. Who sits where?

Read this information and see if you can decipher where everyone sits.

- 1: The Mad Hatter is not opposite Alice
- 2: The March Hare is not on the Dormouse's right.
- 3: The Dormouse is not on Alice's left.

After the success of the first Tea Party, the Mad Hatter decides to throw another one. This time, he invites many more people.

Extension: Use a similar method to last time and see if you can work out who sits where this time.

- 1: The Dormouse needs to sit between the Mad Hatter and the March Hare.
- 2: The March Hare wants to sit to the Dormouse's right to keep him awake.
- 3: The King and Queen of Hearts get very upset if they don't sit at the ends of the table.
- 4: Tweedledee and Tweedledum always sit next to each other and today they are in between the Cheshire Cat and the Mock Turtle.
- 5: The grinning one has to be kept in check and needs to sit next to the white Rabbit
- 6: The Caterpillar sits across from the one who is always late and next to someone who sits at the end of a table.
- 7: The Dormouse and one of the twins are put in the centre because they like to pull faces at each other across the table.
- 8: The King's job is to serve the cake and he likes the Mock Turtle next to him to help.
- 9: The White Rabbit will be whispering apologies for his lateness into the Queen's right ear.
- 10: Alice has the spare seat.
